We'd be pretty stuck without kitchen ceiling lighting – it's essential to have those key task lights perfectly positioned so that we can prep food one minute and entertain the other. When it comes to choosing the best kitchen ceiling lighting ideas for your space, you need to ensure they work with the rest of your kitchen lighting design scheme and be visually in proportion with your space also.

5. WARM UP WHITE WALLS WITH RATTAN

A single pendant made from on-trend rattan can be all you need to create a striking focal point in an a mostly white kitchen. It adds a natural element and texture against the smoothness of the cabinetry, the key is to choose a design that's large enough to work, and not look too small.

Secondary lighting above the sink can add extra illumination. Here the trio of wall sconces is subtle so as not to take away from the central pendant.
